

THE HOUSE IN WHICH BURNS WAS BORN

see page 4

Contents

EDITORIAL ... ..	Page 5
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ... ..	6
AYRSHIRE ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY	8
Burns and His Times—
CHRONOLOGY OF BURNS'S LIFE ... ..	9
CHRONOLOGY OF CONTEMPORARY EVENTS ... ..	9
Burns's Ayrshire—
EXTRACTS FROM CONTEMPORARY WRITERS ... ..	34
Directory of Ayrshire, 1750 - 1800 ... ..	95
Lord Lieutenants; Sheriffs; Peers; Members of Parliament; Freeholders; the Kirk of Scotland and its Ministers; Other Churches; Miscellanea; Ayrshire Weights and Measures.
Burns's Ayrshire Associates ... ..	137
Articles—
THE BEGINNINGS OF THE AGRARIAN AND INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTIONS IN AYRSHIRE ... ..	150
LOCAL ADMINISTRATION IN AYRSHIRE, 1750 - 1800... ..	173
THE ROUN OF THE LANDS OF ALLOWAY ... ..	183
THE ENCLOSURE OF THE TOWN'S COMMON OF AYR ... ..	205
TAM'S ROAD AND LEEZIE'S POOL ... ..	211
BURNS COTTAGE ... ..	221
AYRSHIRE SPEECH IN THE AGE OF BURNS ... ..	222
AN INTRODUCTION TO ARMSTRONGS' MAP ... ..	232
Gazetteer of Ayrshire, 1750 - 1800 ... ..	256
Parishes; Towns and Villages; Estates; Farms; Natural Features; Miscellaneous Subjects.
BIBLIOGRAPHY ... ..	364
INDEX OF PERSONS ... ..	367

Illustrations

FRONTISPICE. 'The House in which Burns was Born.' Drawn on the spot by William Score, aquatinted by Robert Scott, published by Robert Chapman, Glasgow, 1801. This is the earliest illustration of the Cottage. From a copy in Burns Cottage Museum, by courtesy of the Burns Monument Trustees.

Fig.		Page
1.	Communications and Enclosures, c.1755 ... ..	154
2.	Turnpike Roads ... ..	156
3.	Kilbirnie and Beith parishes, c.1755 ... ..	160
4.	Muirkirk parish, arable land ... ..	162
5.	Textile industries, c.1790... ..	164
6.	Population distribution, 1755 ... ..	166
7.	Population changes, 1755-1801 ... ..	168
8.	Kilbirnie village, early 19th century ... ..	169
9.	Catrine Village, c.1795 ... ..	170
10.	Auchinleck village, early 19th century ... ..	171
11.	The Lands of Alloway in 1754 ... ..	182
12.	Axonometric View of Burns Cottage ... ..	220
13.	Outline of Armstrongs' Map of Ayrshire ... ..	233
14.	Armstrongs' Map : Sheet Numbers ... ..	256

Acknowledgments

THE Committee of the Society desires to record its indebtedness to the many persons and bodies who have co-operated in producing this commemorative publication.

Professor De Lancey Ferguson for permission to reprint the Chronology of Burns's Life from his Pride and Passion, Oxford University Press, New York, 1939; the Scottish History Society for permission to reprint extracts from Mitchell's 'Memories,' which appeared in their Miscellany, 1939; to Sir James Fergusson, Bart., Keeper of the Records of Scotland, for contributions to the Directory and for much helpful information and advice; to J. H. G. Lebon, Professor of Geography, Khartoum University, to Mrs. Lebon, and to the London School of Economic and Political Science, for permission and assistance in reprinting the article from London Essays in Geography, edited by Stamp and Woolridge, Longmans, Green & Co., 1951; to Thomas Limond, C.A., Town Chamberlain of Ayr, A. L. Taylor, M.A., D.Litt., Thomas Hamilton, M.A., and David Murison, M.A., B.A., Editor of the Scottish National Dictionary, for their articles; to the various librarians listed on page 233 who assisted the Editor, in particular R. A. Skelton, F.S.A., F.R.Hist.S., Superintendent of the Map Room, British Museum; and, of course, to James W. Forsyth, F.L.A., F.S.A.Scot., and his Staff in the Carnegie Library, Ayr, who have helped in many ways.

The Editor, Dr. John Strawhorn, compiled the Chronology of Contemporary Events, selected the extracts dealing with Burns's Ayrshire, contributed to the Directory, compiled the list of Ayrshire Associates, the Gazetteer, the introduction to Armstrongs' Map, and prepared the bibliography and index.

The Royal Scottish Geographical Society requires special thanks for permission to use their set of Armstrongs' Map of Ayrshire as the basis of our reproductions; we note also the help given by their Secretary, Squadron-Leader B. D. K. Robertson; and express our appreciation of the fine work of Messrs. John Bartholomew & Son, Ltd., Edinburgh, who reproduced the maps.

To Stephen Hunter, D.A., Supervisor of Art for the County of Ayr, we are indebted for devising Figure 12; for preparing also Figures 11, 13 and 14; and for producing the attractive jacket. The Frontispiece is reproduced by courtesy of the Burns Monument Trustees.

The printing of this book was by the Kilmarnock Standard, Ltd., and Mr. D. S. Cameron and his Staff require commendation for their good work in completing the job in the limited time that was available, and doing so in such a satisfactory manner.

In the work of preparation, checking, and distribution, the Editor was ably guided and assisted by an Editorial Committee, to all members of which he owes many thanks.

The decision to produce this commemorative issue was taken by the Committee of the Society despite the fact that the heavy expense might impose a severe strain on the Society's finances. That strain has been relieved by various bodies who generously agreed to subscribe for copies—the Burns Federation; the Burns Monument Trustees; the Edinburgh-Ayrshire Society; the Ayrshire Educational Trust; and Messrs. W. & R. Holmes, Ltd., Glasgow, who took over the responsibility of general sales. Thanks to their support Ayrshire at the Time of Burns, originally planned for distribution only to members of our Society, will now reach a wider public, who we feel sure will find it something worth possessing.