PREFACE.

It must be satisfactory to the Municipality of Ayr, as well as to the Members of this Association, that the valuable series of charters and other muniments belonging to the Royal Burgh are now transcribed in a way which will render them more permanent and useful.

It was at one time intended to include in the present volume some of the earlier of the Town Records, but space did not permit, and these records must therefore be added to the rapidly-accumulating amount of work yet to be overtaken.

The thanks of the Association are very specially due to Mr. R. D. MURDOCH of Ayr, who has spent much time in tracing the boundaries of the lands granted to the burgh by King William the Lion, and the result of his investigations is incorporated in the Introduction.

Two old views of Ayr (at pp. xxxiv and 74) have been reproduced by photo-lithography from Slezer's Theatrum Scotiae (first ed., 1693). The plate of the Burgh Arms has already been used in the Charters of the Friars Preachers, but its appropriateness to the subject-matter of the present volume suggested its use again.

W. S. COOPER.

FAIRFORD, TARBOLTON, May 1883.
